

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

PHILADELPHIA, February 14, 1905.

To the Board of Public Education of the First School District of Pennsylvania.

GENTLEMEN:

I have the honor of presenting herewith the reports of the principals of the higher schools and the heads of the departments giving succinct accounts of the work performed during the past year and containing suggestions of improvement for the future. Your careful attention and consideration of these reports is respectfully suggested.

Notwithstanding the excellent results obtained, criticism may always be expected and at times justified. It is easy to find fault, but it is not always easy to rectify. If a practical method be shown of improving the school system, our Board will gladly aid in its adoption. No system will be perfect, therefore any may be improved.

It is hoped that some benefit may be derived from the present agitation of the subject. This matter, however, being under consideration by a Special Committee, it would be unwise, in my judgment, for me to make any suggestions, other than to the Committee. In order to make any change in the law relating to the school system, legislation at Harrisburg, of course, will be necessary and inasmuch as the present session of the legislature may be short, whatever is done must be done speedily.

The appropriations for the support of the schools have not heretofore been satisfactory. Our accumulating necessities have singularly enough, been met with decreasing appropriations. For the year 1905, whilst we have not received all that we asked for or required, yet I think I may say that this year's appropriations are fairly adequate and perhaps as large as we ought to expect from Councils, having in view the necessities of the city departments, some of which have needs almost as pressing as our own.

Funds, however, are imperatively needed to erect and furnish buildings, new and old ones.

The $2,200,000 loan is being utilized as rapidly as sites can be found and plans prepared, the architect's department being seriously handicapped by lack of skilled assistance.

The attention of the Board is especially called to the somewhat lengthy, but entirely interesting and instructive, report of the Superintendent printed in a separate pamphlet. Aside from the historical importance of this report, it suggests improvements and advancements which may well have our attention.

Pupils during the last year have been relieved of some home work, and studies heretofore thought necessary have been modified or dropped. The elementary schools are receiving, very wisely, more attention and encouragement.

In the pride which we have for our higher schools we are apt to overlook the fact, that to the excellent teaching and discipline of our elementary schools, we owe much of the success of our high schools.

The broad line of demarcation at one time existing between the high and elementary schools is now almost non-existent. The articulation is almost complete. The languages, however, still present difficulties to the high school matriculant. These difficulties will be ameliorated, in my judgment, by the re-introduction of the study of etymology as recently suggested for the elementary schools.

The deficiency in our teaching and substitute force is referred to in the reports of the Superintendent and the Principal of the Normal School, to which your attention has been invited.

A resolution of the Board passed January 10, 1905, it was expected, to some extent, to remedy the evil. It cannot, however, be pretended that the remedy suggested by the resolution is complete, though it may be the best that can now be afforded.

One of the most important educational events occurring during the past year was the St. Louis school exhibit. Our schools, although greatly hampered by lack of room and somewhat by money, attracted such favorable attention that we were awarded the "Grand Prize" for the collective exhibit, and additionally gold medals to the Girls' Normal and High Schools, and also to the Superintendent, a very gratifying result.

ARCHITECTS' DEPARTMENT.

During the past year eight buildings were completed and occupied, giving accommodation to more than four thousand scholars in one hundred and seven divisions. The alterations to the building on Bainbridge Street, above Ninth Street, were also completed, furnishing accommodations to about 550 children in 14 divisions.

It is expected that the new Northeast Manual Training School, now nearing completion, will be ready for occupancy in the fall of this year. Contracts for new schools and additions to old schools have been awarded, payments for which will amount in the aggregate to $627,033.

THE LEWIS ELKIN FUND.

There have been 230 applicants for the benefit of this fund, and of this number 140 are now receiving its benefits. The munificence and excellence of Mr. Elkin's gift has never been exceeded nor better appreciated in this city, except perhaps, by that of Stephen Girard.

CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL.

The attendance at this school has again increased, so that the number of boys on the roll is the greatest, it is said, ever gathered under one school roof in this city. There are 1788 young people in daily attendance, taxing the capacity even of the large assembly room which contains only 1632 seats, nor is it possible to assign a room to every teacher for his exclusive use. This inconvenience, it is hoped, may find a remedy at an early day, by the separation of the Department of Commerce in a building of its own.

During the past year the teaching force has been increased by four.

A most gratifying confirmation of the wisdom of our rule with reference to admissions upon exemption, is afforded by Doctor Thompson's report. It appears that Professor Mearns of the School of Pedagogy, kept a record of the last Freshman class, with the view of ascertaining the practical effect of the rule. Three hundred and seventeen of those admitted upon exemption and 79 of those admitted upon examination continued in the class for the term. Seventy per cent. of those admitted upon exemption secured promotion to the Sophomore class, as against less than thirty per cent. of those admitted upon examination.

This result would seem to mean not only that the rule should be maintained, but that the judgment and honesty of the principals of our elementary schools may be depended upon.

PHILADELPHIA NORMAL SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

The average attendance for the year in the Normal Department was 273.2 and in the Department of Practice 489.

The Misses Harriet E. Trask, Mary E. Hunter and Adelaide H. Dovey resigned and the Misses Florence H. Darnell and Jane Rodgers were appointed to fill the vacancies thus occasioned.

The Simon Muhr scholarship for four years was awarded to Dena D. Ungemach, and city scholarships to the following graduates:—

Anna C. Stryke, to Cornell University.
Fannie P. Feinberg, to University of Pennsylvania.

Stella Nathan, to Bryn Mawr College.

Emily C. Jamison, to Women's Medical College.

Nine graduates secured scholarships in the Academy of the Fine Arts, and one in the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art.

The work of the school was organized last May under six departments, viz.:—

Physics and Chemistry, Prof. Sydney T. Skidmore.

Psychology, Margaret S. Prichard.

Drawing and Modeling, Mary A. Campbell.

Hygiene and Physical Training, Dr. Grace E. Spiegle.

Kindergarten, Mary Adair.

The methods of work in Kindergarten classes, Biology, Laboratory and Geography, have been somewhat altered and greatly improved. The report of the Principal may be read with interest and profit.

HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

The number of students on the roll December 31, 1904, was 1993, as compared with 1616 in 1903.

The amount of home study required of the pupils was somewhat reduced during the last year, with gratifying results. In view of the desire to maintain the high standard of this school, it is difficult to decide at present what, if any, further reduction may be made in home work. The question, I think, may safely be left to the experience and discretion of the Principal and his most excellent staff of assistants reinforced by the Committee on the School.

The Principal in his report complains, very justly, of the need of more room and additional teaching force. If these wants can be met, I earnestly commend the remedy to your early attention.

COMMERCIAL HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

The enrollment at this school was less in 1904 than in the previous year, due, it is believed, to the extended course of study, which took effect in September, 1904. More than twenty-five per cent. of those certified for admission in 1904 never reported. The reason for this is stated to be that private institutions, through their agents, presented to the pupils at their homes promises of positions after a training of six months. I need hardly say that six months' tuition in a private institution, no matter how well conducted, can be equally beneficial with a full course of study in the Commercial High School. Any representation of efficiency in six months, whilst alluring, must be delusive.

At the Commencement in June 163 graduates received diplomas.

Four teachers were added to the faculty during 1904. It is hoped that the new building for this school may be available at the earliest possible date. The money has been appropriated for the building, but the location and lot have not as yet been decided upon by the committees having the matter in charge.

CENTRAL MANUAL TRAINING SCHOOL.

The twentieth annual report of this school exhibits an enrollment of 666 boys.

In June, 112 students were graduated. The great necessity of this school is an adequate building. The lot Twenty-sixth and Master Streets, has been transferred by Councils to the Board of Public Education for the use of the school, but no appropriation has yet been made for the erection and equipment of a building. It is thought, however, the appropriation will not be long delayed.

The course of study is practically the same as heretofore, but the work is much hampered by lack of room and equipment.

Some necessary changes and additions have been made to the faculty.

The attention of the Board is specially called to the able, interesting and instructive report of the Principal of this school. The work done and the success attained have been accomplished under the most discouraging conditions, and yet the success is fully equal to any similar school in the country.

NORTHEAST MANUAL TRAINING SCHOOL.

The Fourteenth Annual Report of this school exhibits an attendance of 776 boys. The increased attendance has been so large that it became necessary to furnish accommodation in two additional buildings.

The report shows some changes and requisite additions to the faculty.

At the Annual Commencement in June, 147 pupils graduated.

Free scholarships in the University of Pennsylvania to six graduates; one to Lehigh University; two to the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art and one to Jefferson Medical College. In addition to these free scholarships it gives me pleasure to note that of the graduates 33 matriculated at the University of Pennsylvania, four at Lehigh, one at Swarthmore, one at the University of Virginia, and two selected as instructors in industrial schools.

Lectures and exhibitions under the auspices of this school, so successful in previous years, were continued during 1904.

The new building is now nearly completed and will be ready for furniture and equipment, it is thought, this summer or perhaps earlier.

INDUSTRIAL ART SCHOOL.

The number of pupils enrolled for the fall term was 1297, the boys predominating in number.

To pupils attending from grammar schools, 109 certificates of completion of the course were granted.

The list of awards of scholarships and distinguished pupils, fully set forth in the Director's report, is called to your attention. The value of the instruction, the character of the course and strong personality of the Director and his teachers have made this school the success we find it, and the high rank which it has attained.

JAMES FORTEN SCHOOL.

The number of pupils belonging to this school at the end of the year was 644, with an average daily attendance of 554. The number of girls attending the cooking classes from the neighboring schools was 308, and of the boys attending the sloyd department was 98.

The third-story front of the building now completed is giving much satisfaction, affording accommodation for additional pupils, and good ventilation and light. Notwithstanding this additional room, more pupils are demanding admission than can be given room and teaching. The course of instruction here is extremely popular and should have liberal support.

EVENING SCHOOLS.

The report of the first half of the term for these schools showed that in 47 schools an enrollment of 15,248, which was subsequently increased to 24,040; there being 16,041 belonging at the end of the term preceding Christmas. The teaching force numbered 597, and the cost per pupil $2.75.

We have reason to congratulate the Committee on the splendid progress made under its intelligent management and organization.

The Departments of Drawing and Music have both done most excellent and successful work and are entitled to the highest praise. No city in the country can show better results. The work of the Committee on Compulsory Education and Special Schools has, under the able supervision of the Committee and its Chairman, been entirely systematized, and the results expected by law well maintained.

SCHOOL GARDENS.

The two school gardens, open from May 15th to October 15th, are reported a success. Each garden provided for over two hundred fifty small gardeners of both sexes, who were able to raise a creditable showing of crops upon their plots of four by eleven feet. In conjunction with the practical work, lessons on soil preparation, plant growth, etc., were given by the attendant teachers. The playgrounds run in connection with the gardens were well patronized. In addition to benefits conferred upon the seven hundred children employed, the gardens proved useful to the public schools.

In conjunction with the practical work, lessons on soil preparation, plant growth, etc., were given by the attendant teachers. The playgrounds run in connection with the gardens were well patronized. In addition to benefits conferred upon the seven hundred children employed, the gardens proved useful to the public schools.

Fifty-one classes from schools nearby visited the gardens and were taught about the plants and vegetables grown, using the knowledge thus gained, in language work upon their return to their class-rooms. ### REPORT

OF THE

PRESIDENT OF THE CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL.

FOR THE YEAR 1904.

CENTRAL HIGH SCHOOL,

Philadelphia, December 31, 1904.

TO MESSRS. JOEL COOK, Chairman: WILLIAM WRIGLEY, JOSEPH R. RHOADS, WILLIAM T. TILDEN, JOSEPH W. CATHARINE, PAUL KAVANAGH, WILLIAM H. SHOEMAKER, and CHARLES H. EDMUNDS, Committee of the Board of Public Education on the Central High School.

GENTLEMEN:—The close of another calendar year makes it my duty to report to you the condition of the Central High School, and to record the outstanding facts of its history during the year.

The attendance has again increased so that the number of boys on our roll is the greatest ever gathered under one roof in this city, and is hardly exceeded by any other school in the country. Taking the years since I was entrusted with the presidency of the school, I find the growth to have been as follows:—

	On Roll Jan. 1.	Added,	Graduated.
1894	706
1895	773	67	92
1896	865	92	86
1897	1044	179	89
1898	1164	120	105
1899	1228	64	162
1900	1235	7	127
1901	1289	54	124
1902	1306	17	138
1903	1379	73	166
1904	1531	159	167
1905	1729	198

Adding to these the boys in the School of Practice, I find that there are 1788 young people in daily attendance.

Of the graduates enumerated, 98 received the degree of Bachelor of Arts at the Annual Commencement in June; 39 that of Bachelor of Science; 32 that of Bachelor of Science in Economics; and 8 the Collegiate Certificate of the School of Pedagogy.

With this large attendance the capacity even of our large building begins to be taxed. As the Assembly Room contains 1632 seats, it is not possible to bring all the boys together for their morning exercises, and several sections of the Freshman Class have to meet for these in the large Lecture Room. Nor is it possible to assign a room to every teacher for his exclusive use, and several of our latest additions to the teaching force have to move from one room to another as one may be found vacant. This is an evil which we found very much in the way of effective teaching in our old building, as it is rare that a teacher does not require to have at hand maps or other apparatus to illustrate his instruction, and the removal of these from place to place is not only an annoyance but a loss of time.

For these and similar reasons we look forward with lively expectations to the time when our Department of Commerce will be established as an independent school under its very competent head. This department has grown in its hold upon the public attention, through its development of a plan of commercial education at once practical in its aims and broadening in its general influence. Its exhibit at St. Louis, I have reason to know, had a full share in securing to the schools of our city the flattering award, which has given us much satisfaction; and the inquiries as to its methods, and as to the possibility of sending boys from other countries to study in it, show that its merits have won wider than national apprecia-It is, therefore, with no feeling that the department is other than fit to take its place alongside other High School courses, but simply through the need of more room, that we welcome the prospect of its becoming an independent school at an early date.

It is pleasing also to observe that the School of Pedagogy is attaining the numbers and consequent influence it deserves. The work done by its graduates in our city schools has been an adequate answer to its critics, and these graduates have been co-operating to increase the attendance by calling the attention of recent graduates from the general course to the need of more male teachers in the lower schools, and the opening the School of Pedagogy offers to young men of character and capacity for a career of honorable usefulness. It is to this that we owe the rise of the attendance to thirty-one, twenty-three being in the first year class.

The year has been uneventful in most respects, as indeed, is desirable for school work. The sudden deaths of two occupants of the Assistant Professorship of German cast a gloom over the school. The former of these, Prof. George W. Schwartz, has been commemorated by a handsome replica of the beautiful front of the organ gallery at Florence, by Lucca della Robbia, which occupies the corridor wall outside his room, and is the gift of his pupils. The class of 1899 has added another to the large replicas of famous statues, this being the Athene of Phidias, and the first of the kind brought to America. Our walls also show the interest in our school felt by the great universities of the country, as they are displaying photographs of Princeton, Brown, Yale, Columbia and Pennsylvania, given us either by these institutions directly, or by the clubs which represent them in our city. I attribute much of this interest to the excellent record made by our graduates as students of the universities, of which we are receiving frequent evidences.

During the year the teaching force has been altered by increase from 58 of all grades to 62. The resignation of Prof. Franklin Spencer Edmonds caused a vacancy, which has been filled by the election of Mr. Abraham L. Spencer as an Instructor in History. Mr. George A. Snook, who has been doing a large part of Dr. Shock's work by private arrangement with that honored teacher, has been recognized as Instructor in Mathematics. The strength of the Department of English has been increased by the addition of Mr. Milton B. Wise as Instructor and Mr. William Woods as Assistant Instructor, the latter having charge of composition work. The Department of History is increased by the addition of Mr. Warren D. Renninger. The opening of the New Year will bring Dr. Benjamin Sharp to the assistance of the Department of Biology. These additions were all much needed, and they do not yet enable us to reduce the size of our classes to the number universally regarded by educational authorities as the proper maximum, so that we are doing our work under difficulties not experienced in most institutions of the same grade.

We also have been working at a disadvantage in the matter of supplies. We are obliged to retain in use books, whose long service and dilapidation would suggest that they be remanded to the refuse-heap. In some cases instruction has been given in the languages or in mathematics without text-books of any kind. Yet we are forbidden by the rules of the Board to suggest to the students that they could buy the books for themselves.

A crying want of the school is a medical officer to take some oversight of the health of such students as seem unfit for their work on any day of their attendance. I am obliged to call in the services of the four medical gentlemen who are teachers in the school, and this often to the interruption of their regular work. In such a large number of students there are always a goodly number who need looking after, and with whom a little attention given in time may be the means of preventing serious disease.

Besides the required duties of teachers and students, there is much voluntary work undertaken by both. The public lectures now continued for a third winter is the most outstanding illustration of the former; but there is also much labor in voluntary classes, in the suggestion and direction of reading, and the like. The voluntary associations of students are active chiefly in the fields of music and athletics. Our Orchestra, Mandolin Club and Glee Club are highly creditable to their members, and to the teachers who have general direction of their work. Our athletic teams and crew have done much to keep the school before the public in the manner now accepted by the educational world. There always will be a difficulty in keeping the members of these teams from putting athletics before study, and the faculty has enacted rules to secure this, and the Athletic Council, in which it is represented, has the enforcement of these. Last spring it excluded from our baseball team the best player it had, because in the monthly review of the roll of his class it was found that he had fallen below the minimum fixed by the rules. I may add that the school owes much to Prof. Spaeth, Prof. Moffatt and Prof. O'Brien for keeping an active control of the athletics of the school, and keeping these free from a kind of demoralizing influence with which many of our best American schools have had to contend.

From Prof. Mearns of our School of Pedagogy I have received a table which gives the result of a careful study of the record made by the last Freshman Class, with a view to testing the merits of admission from the lower schools by exemption. That class received 394 boys by exemption, and 104 by examination. Of the former 77 and of the latter 25 left before the end of the school year, leaving 317 and 79 of the two classes. Of these close upon 70 per cent. of the boys admitted by exemption attained promotion to the Sophomore Class, while less than thirty per cent. of those who came in by examination did so. This is proof that exemption works well, and should be extended rather than abolished.

We begin a new year with confidence of Divine help in the discharge of its duties, and relying upon your kindness and that of the Board of Public Education, of which we have had ample experience in the past.

Very respectfully yours,

ROBT. ELLIS THOMPSON, President of the Central High School,

CHANGES IN THE FACULTY.

Miss Harriett E. Trask, of the Department of Hygiene and Physical Training, resigned February 15, 1904. No appointment followed.

Miss Mary E. Hunter, of the Department of Practice, who resigned February 1st, was succeeded by Miss Florence H. Darnell.

Miss Adelaide H. Dovey, teacher in the Department of Physics and Chemistry, resigned in November, and Miss Jane Rodgers was appointed assistant in that department.

SCHOLARSHIPS.

The Simon Muhr Scholarship was awarded to Miss Dena D. Ungemach, for the full term of four years. She is pursuing advanced work in the Department of Biology of the University of Pennsylvania.

City scholarships were awarded to the following-named graduates:—

Miss Anna C. Stryke, Science, Cornell University.

Miss Fannie P. Feinberg, Biology, University of Pennsylvania.

Miss Stella Nathan, Bryn Mawr College.

Miss Emily C. Jamison, Woman's Medical College.

Nine of our graduates were successful in securing scholarships in the Academy of the Fine Arts, and one in the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art.

ORGANIZATION OF DEPARTMENTS.

In accordance with the new salary schedule of the Board of Public Education, the work of the school was organized in May last, under departments, and a head named for each, resulting as follows:—

Physics and Chemistry, Prof. Sydney T. Skidmore.

Psychology, Miss Margaret S. Prichard.

Drawing and Modeling, Miss Mary A. Campbell.

Hygiene and Physical Training, Dr. Grace E. Spiegle.

Kindergarten, Miss Mary Adair.

CLASSES WITH KINDERGARTNERS.

Students who return to take the Post Graduate Course in Kindergarten, feel in every case more than repaid for the sacrifice made. They find the course offered by the school in this third year thoroughly satisfactory and inspiring to such a degree that they are usually ambitious to continue their professional study.

It is gratifying to note the deep interest which the Kinderearten teachers of the city take in their work. This is largely due to the impulse given through the study classes held on Tuesday afternoon of each week at the Philadelphia Normal School. These classes are conducted by Miss Adair, head of the Kindergarten Department, and follow the general lines of of each student, and her work in the Department of Observation and Practice is under the constant oversight of the training teachers, who give individual criticism and suggestion.

The Course of Study for the Post-Graduate Year (Kindergarten Course) includes: Nature Study, Child Study, Philosophy of Education, Hygiene for Children, Drawing, Manual Training, Physical Training, Kindergarten Methods applied to Primary Work, School Economy and Hygiene, including Reports, Supplies, Mothers' Meetings, Criticism Class.

The voluntary associations of students are practical application taken up in the third year course. So many kindergartners have entered these classes this year that it was found necessary to divide the numbers into two alternate groups.

In this connection it is a pleasure to record the action of Mr. William W. Justice in presenting to this department, in June last, a new upright piano.

METHOD STUDY IN BIOLOGY.

The course in Biology has been materially changed in character, making the work strictly professional. Long ago we dropped dissecting, and the recent enlargement and improvement of the science work in the High School has made it possible for us to give up all that was formal and academic in our previous course. The time formerly devoted to Nature Study has, therefore, been cut in half. One hour each week is devoted to the technical study of methods and the actual practice teaching of the students, under supervision, in the classrooms of the Department of Observation and Practice. The remaining two hours per week are devoted to classroom work, which is a splendid example of method; for the method followed is the method that should prevail in the study of plants and animals in the lower schools. All the work of the laboratories is based on actual experience in the field.

LABORATORY METHODS AND WORK IN GEOGRAPHY.

Ever since the organization of geography into a department, a constant effort has been made to base the study upon laboratory methods and work. From the Commercial Museum, from manufacturers, expositions, and other sources, we have gotten together something of an equipment for this purpose.

A description of our plan for studying cotton and wool will probably best illustrate what we have succeeded in doing in this new method of geographical study. Samples of cotton goods are analyzed by the students, with the aid of a lens, in order to discover the manner of weaving and the composition of the individual threads. Cotton bolls are then examined by them, and the fibres previously found in the cotton thread.

The problem now before the students is the conversion of the raw cotton from the bolls into the finished thread. Following suggestions given by members of the class, the students perform by hand the operations of ginning, cleaning, carding, and spinning. Then they open the seeds and discover the valuable cottonseed oil and discuss its uses.

Wool is examined by the naked eye and by the aid of a compound microscope, comparing its structure with that of cotton. Raw wool is converted into thread by the students and woolen and worsted yarn are felt and examined by them. Looms are reinvented by the students, and a small piece of cloth woven on each.

Lantern slides and stereoscopic views help them to understand the practical aspect of various textile industries; a map constructed by them proves their knowledge of areas in the United States engaged in the production of cotton and wool; and, best of all, a visit is paid to a textile mill, where the actual conversion of the raw material into the finished product is seen.

We should extend this laboratory method to the other phases of geography, and for this purpose we need a more complete equipment, particularly along the line of relief maps and models, charts, geological, and anthropological material. Our yearly laboratory allowance is not sufficient for this purpose. We should have a special appropriation to cover the first outlay. In no other way can our geographical laboratories be brought to the high standard of equipment reached by the Laboratories of Chemistry, Physics, and Biology.

SCHOOL EXHIBIT AT THE ST. LOUIS EXHIBITION.

A noteworthy feature of the year's work was the preparation of the exhibit sent by the Normal School to the Exposition at St. Louis. Every department was represented, and effort was made to show in detail the course of study, the methods of work, and the special way in which each department helps in the training of the future teacher. To accomplish these results, not only was the printed text carefully prepared, but a liberal use was also made of photographs, students' notebooks and drawings, and other illustrative material.

That a large measure of success was attained in the difficult task of making known in this way the spirit and helpful training of the school, is shown by the interest manifested by prominent educators in the exhibit, and by the fact that it has been solicited by several foreign governments in exchange.

DEARTH IN SUPPLY OF TEACHERS: A REMEDY SUGGESTED.

It is more than probable that the numbers in the Normal School are now at the lowest ebb. Conditions in the Girls' High School indicate that subsequent classes will for some time be increasingly larger, but not until 1908 may we expect our incoming class to exceed two hundred. Our present Senior Class numbers one hundred twenty-two, our Junior Class one hundred sixty-three.

The period of greatest anxiety arising from want of additional teachers will exist during the next three or four years, unless strenuous measures are taken to secure an adequate and well qualified supply. It is idle to assume that the number in the present substitute corps of fifty or less does not include every available candidate.

It is a certainty that at least one hundred permanent teachers will be required to fill the vacancies that will occur before the end of June next, and that the average number needed daily for substitute service will exceed one hundred.

Let us inquire—What can the Normal School prudently do to relieve the situation?

It has been stated that at least one hundred additional teachers will be required for permanent positions during the next five months, that a larger number will be needed for substitute service during that time, and that there are now less than fifty who are qualified and awaiting appointment. These are conservative statements, but they indicate that we are rapidly approaching a serious crisis.

What the result would be if the Normal School, unaided, were required to supply the deficiency in the teaching force for the next four or five years can hardly be conceived except by those who have given the matter careful and serious consideration. Are we prepared, by shortening the course of training, to receive into the profession young girls with one, or possibly two, years' less education and training than they are getting at the present time? Surely immaturity, with all that the term implies in meagre scholarship, unformed habits, deficient training, and absence of professional spirit, would leave its baneful influence on the work of such teachers for generations to come.

For more than half a century the constant aim of those connected with the direction and administration of the Normal School has been so to broaden the scope of instruction and training as to place them on a scientific basis, with a view ultimately to raise the work of teaching to the dignity of a profession. In the history of the school, as found in successive reports, this fact shines forth with a clearness that is unmistakable. Every advance has cost years of persistent, painstaking and unremitting effort. The result has been not alone that teaching has been exalted to a profession, but that our teaching force has taken its place in the front rank of it. spirit of progress is abroad in every field of educational activ-Every association of teachers claims as the chief reason for its existence "the raising of the standard of the profession of teaching." Not only the impulse to better life, but that to better work as well, comes through the searching discipline of the years of faithful preparation for it.

In view of these facts, the situation, grave as it is, does not demand such sacrifice.

If the substitute corps alone were filled, much would be done toward relieving the stringency of the situation. This cannot be accomplished with legally qualified teachers, however, under the present requirements for entrance, nor at the salary paid for the service.

Why may not these positions, with adequate pay attached, be opened, by suspension of the rules, to graduates of State Normal Schools and to such other applicants as present credentials satisfactory to recognized authority?

If such action were taken, and our needs given wide publicity, it is not to be doubted that many who are now teaching in the schools of the country would gladly avail themselves of the advantages for broader culture, which the city would afford them. The most ambitious and promising of these would eventually qualify by examination for the position of permanent teacher, thus relieving, to a great extent, the stress of present conditions.

SENIORS FOR SUBSTITUTE SERVICE.

The drafting of members of the Senior Class for substitute duty in the schools, as was done in April and May last, is disconcerting in many ways. The plan adopted by the Committee did not materially affect their standing in the school, as in no case was any student absent for more than five days for such work. It was our policy to send out in the beginning, as well as later, those students who, on account of good work in the Department of Practice, and high standing in the Normal Department, were best able to lose the work of the school. This method of procedure, which appealed to the Committee and the Faculty as tending to more effective work in the grades than the sending of individual classes would have done, created among the students a widespread feeling of anxiety, unhappiness and discontent, which continued to the close of the term.

In the scheme of the Normal School the last year is to the students the period in which the attainments of previous years of training are crystallized into pedagogical significance. Whatever interruptions there may be at other times in school life, this formative period should be jealously guarded from disturbance. The practice training in the school itself is harmonized with the Senior year work; outside practice is discordant and destructive of the larger educational values.

In conclusion, I beg to express to the Committee my profound thanks for its generous assistance and support, and at the same time place on record my grateful appreciation of the devotion of the Faculty and the loyal support of the student body.

Respectfully submitted,

J. MONROE WILLARD,

Principal.

REPORT

OF THE

PRINCIPAL OF THE PHILADELPHIA HIGH SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

FOR THE YEAR 1904.

To Messrs. Joseph W. Catharine, Chairman; Simon Gratz, Paul Kavanagh, Thomas E. Merchant, Thomas G. Barrett, Frederick A. Sobernheimer, Charles S. Turnbull, M. D., and William II. Ziegler, M. D.

MR. CATHARINE AND MEMBERS OF THE COMMITTEE:—I have the honor to submit the annual report of the Philadelphia High School for Girls for the year ending December 31, 1904.

The enrollment, etc., for the past three years have been as follows:—

	1902	1903	1904
Number belonging January 1st	1496	1591	1616
Average number belonging during the year	1508	1543	1741
Average number attending during the year	1419	1461	1643
Number admitted during the year	883	756	1208
Number left during the year	788	74 0	831
Number graduated	219	189	226
Number belonging in September	1876	1738	2138
Number on roll December 31st	1591	1616	1993

Several facts of notable interest will be manifest upon a study of the above figures. It is satisfactory to observe that the number of pupils graduated is materially larger than in the last preceding years and that the size of the classes now in school promises a further gain in the near future, thus giving hope that the candidates sent up to the Normal School will presently be in sufficient number to reduce the present acknowledged scarcity of teachers for the city schools. Again, it is pleasant to note that the percentage of pupils dropping out of school was less, last year, than in any recent twelve months. Since the present organization of the school there have been enrolled each year in the three upper classes almost exactly seventy per cent. of the number in the three lower classes the previous year. At this time, however, the percentage is seventy-five and as these classes are pursuing practically the same course of study, and under almost the identical conditions of former years, the change is most gratifying, and if it can be maintained, we shall have reasonable ground for hope that definite progress is being made in the spread of interest in education among the people of Philadelphia.

Since my last report no changes have occurred in our teaching staff except that at the request of your Committee, the Director of Music in September last assigned one of his assistants, Miss Katherine E. Murphey, to work in this school. This addition to our force has enabled us to reorganize our classes in music, and to put instruction in this subject more nearly on the same plane as that in other branches of study, and with most satisfactory results.

Reference was made in my last report to the amount of home study required of our pupils, and to the possibility of reducing it, if a suitable method for so doing could be devised. My study of the situation resulted in the conclusion that in many of our classes too much outside work was required and about the middle of the school year we put in operation the plan of having one unprepared lesson per week in those studies to which most time is devoted and which are of a nature to render such a form of lesson applicable. thus enabled to relieve each pupil of the preparation of from two to five lessons per week, and these unprepared lessons were so distributed over the program of the week as to afford the greatest practicable amount of relief. The plan has worked well in almost every respect. These periods have been largely utilized in giving instruction in the art of study itself, an art in which a large proportion of pupils everywhere are sadly It has been a source of the greatest satisfaction that this relief has been effected without material reduction of the amount of work accomplished, and that the plan has met the general approval of teachers, pupils and parents.

Soon after the first of the year we inaugurated a series of three evening receptions, inviting upon the successive occasions, the members of the different classes with their par-These receptions have afforded opportunity for some things to be said to parents about the special needs of their daughters in school, and about the meaning and methods of school work, but they have been most valuable in bringing the parents and teachers into more genuine acquaintance than has hitherto been possible. The receptions have been largely attended, upon more than one occasion by upwards of a thousand people, and I have reason to believe that they have been of real and important service in promoting the work of the school. We look forward to continuing the plan, at least so far as the entering and graduating classes are concerned, and the reception for the present first year class was held in October last.

In my last annual report I referred to the need for a revision of the courses of study offered in this school and indicated my intention of bringing the matter before you at a suitable time. Circumstances compelled us to take up the subject earlier than I then anticipated and a revised course of study was adopted by the Board of Public Education last spring upon your recommendation and was put in effect in September last so far as the entering class was concerned.

The principal changes were the substitution of a modern language in lieu of Latin in the general course, and a reallotment of hours of work among the different branches of study. While it is yet too early to judge of the ultimate effects of these changes, it is safe to say that in general they seem to be working well, and that they seem likely to be effective in maintaining a higher degree of interest among our pupils and in promoting sound and efficient work. It is greatly to be regretted, however, that the most important of these alterations makes it even more difficult than heretofore for pupils to change from one course of study to another, thus imposing upon them at much too early an age, the necessity of making permanent choice between lines of work with which they are imperfectly and in too many cases, not at all, acquainted. The difficulty arising from this cause might be partly overcome if our regulations were so altered as to permit pupils under special circumstances, and with proper restrictions, to pursue partial courses of study, or at least to carry on the work of some of the higher classes while that of the earlier years has not been entirely completed. Such a scheme would enable us to do away with some of the hardship resulting from our present rule regarding promotion, and would obviate the difficulty which now frequently occurs in classifying applicants who come from good high schools whose courses of study differ in some important respect from our own.

The painting of the exterior of the building during the summer vacation and sundry interior alterations which you have since been able to effect, have greatly improved the conditions under which our work must be done. I understand that plans for electric lighting are well under way and I trust that this much needed improvement, together with the painting of the interior of the building, can be accomplished in the near future.

I have reserved for the close of this report the subject which I wish most strongly to urge upon your attention. I mean the present overcrowded condition of the school and its probably still greater numbers another year, and the necessity for providing additional room and a corps of teachers numerically equal to the task they will have in hand.

In the statistics of attendance, etc., given above, it is shown that there are now in the school nearly four hundred more pupils than at the corresponding time last year. Up to the present, we have been able to carry on the work of this largely increased school without additional teaching force, but the task has been found too great and you have arranged to grant our request for several new teachers to come to our assistance after the first of the year. We have not, however, proper accommodations for a larger teaching force, and it is manifest that unless a most unlikely decrease occurs in our next entering class, a large number of pupils, together with their teachers, must be quartered elsewhere.

I commend the subject to your serious attention.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. W. BIRDSALL,

Principal.

Philadelphia, December 23, 1904.

To Thomas G. Barrett, Simon Gratz, Thomas E. Merchant, James Hughes. William Wrigley, Paul Kavanagh, Charles E. Davis, William H. Shoemaker, Charles S. Turnbull, M. D.

MR. THOMAS G. BARRETT, Chairman:—In June, 1903, nine hundred and fifty-nine pupils were admitted from the Grammar Schools; in June, 1904, eight hundred and three pupils were admitted. In other words, a hundred and fifty-six fewer pupils were sent to the school in 1904 than in 1903. Our enrollment in December, 1903, was thirteen hundred and fifty; in December, 1904, it is twelve hundred and twenty, showing that it is a hundred and thirty smaller than it was a year ago. The difference in admission and enrollment is due to the extended course of study, which took effect in September, 1904. We are gratified to note that there has been no loss except that referred to, as is made evident by the correspondence of figures showing the decrease.

This is an appropriate opportunity to point out a matter that gives us some thought, although it does not lie within our control. The school is peculiarly situated in that it suffers depletion from a cause that affects no public schools other than Commercial ones. I refer to the extraordinary efforts made by private institutions which offer business training. Some of these institutions, through their agents sent to the homes of the pupils, present persuasive arguments, of which the most powerful is the promise of a position after a training of six months, or some other short time, as against the several years required by the High School. This activity has increased with the multiplied number of private business schools, so that recently, pupils have been repeatedly importuned not to enter this school, or to leave after entrance. This statement explains why many pupils certified as admitted from the Grammar Schools never attend one session in the High School. Over a quarter of the number certified for admission in 1903 and 1904 never reported.

We cannot refuse to recognize another element of difficulty in holding our pupils together. In spite of the kindly provision always made by the Committee, and in spite of our own endeavor to make the buildings as attractive as possible, the fact remains that pupils are not, to say the least of it, prepossessed by the accommodations that we can offer. Many of the more modern Grammar Schools are beautiful buildings with every convenience. The girls feel the change keenly. It is almost impossible to create the feeling of school pride and loyalty without which a school cannot do its best work. It is difficult to make the girls realize that they are a part of the school. As parents not infrequently allow their children to decide for themselves whether or not they will take a High School course, very much depends on the impression that a girl gets in the first few weeks.

Considering these facts, we are moved to ask that such speed as may be possible shall attend the movement to get us a new building. No formal report can possibly convey the sense of urgent necessity as we feel it every day. The entire school administration is hindered and complicated to a degree that can be known only by those actually engaged in the work.

Perhaps we may be pardoned for taking some pride in repeating the evidences that, so far as may be, we have dealt successfully with our difficulties. We graduate a large proportion of the pupils who really do attend after admission; and we hold them to a satisfactory standard as is proved by the increasing demand for them in higher positions. They are sought as teachers of business branches in other cities and in our own night schools, as well as to fill positions of trust with professional men. In the second place, they like to come back to the school, and attend in large numbers the yearly mass meeting and the monthly gatherings at the school. Their enthusiasm carries along an athletic association, two choral societies and three literary clubs.

We have had the pleasure of several addresses from such speakers as Professor Franklin S. Edmonds and Generals Mulholland and Latta. We have had special musical and literary programmes repeatedly for the pleasure of the girls.

At Commencement in June, 1904, one hundred and sixty-three girls received the diploma of the school. The thoughtful address we owed to the kindness of Mr. John H. Converse. This, like the previous Commencement occasions, was made a source of pleasure to us by the sympathy and kindness with which the exercises were received. We ought to do as well as the gentlemen of the Committee say we do, when they are so appreciative.

I must state in this connection that we have had four teachers added to the faculty, through the same care for our work to which I have already referred. The Misses Ehlers, Saybolt and Price and Mrs. Greene were elected.

It only remains for me to thank, most heartily, the members of the Committee, who, by providing teachers and books, lifted a part of the burden that seemed too great to carry, when we realized all that is involved in readjusting the work of the school to meet the reconstructed course of study.

I do thank you all, in my own name and that of the faculty.

Yours respectfully,

EMILY L. GRAHAM,

Principal.

REPORT

OF THE

PRINCIPAL OF THE CENTRAL MANUAL TRAINING SCHOOL.

FOR THE YEAR 1901.

To Alexander McKnight, Chairman; Harvey H. Hubbert, William H. Ziegler, M. D., Edwin Wolf, Charles H. Edmunds, Benjamin T. Longstreth. Charles S. Turnbull, M. D., Robert H. Nones, D. D. S., Committee on the Central Manual Training School.

GENTLEMEN:—I herewith present the twentieth annual report of the condition and progress of affairs at the Central Manual Training School during the year 1904.

The year began with an enrollment of 634 boys, and closes with a total enrollment of 666, classified as follows: Senior Class, 149; Junior Class, 219; Freshman Class, 298. During the year there were admitted from the elementary schools and from other authorized sources 393 boys. In June, 112 students were graduated, and 249 left for other causes, some from inability or failure to keep up with their studies, but the larger number for reasons of domestic necessity. The high water mark of enrollment was reached at the opening of the school in September, when 724 pupils answered to the roll call.

To those who are interested in the work of the school, I would earnestly recommend the perusal of the last annual catalogue (a copy of which has been submitted to every member of the Committee) in which the scope and the extent of the work, the methods of instruction, course of study, list of students, etc., are exhibited with a greater fulness of detail than is possible to present in a report of this kind. A glance through its pages will give some idea of the quality of our educational product.

In the presentation of a formal report, there are four external questions entering into the school problem which particularly concern the school authorities, and which demand the constant co-operation and support of the Committee, viz.: material conditions, the Course of Study, the Faculty, and So far as the internal conditions of school life are the Boy. concerned, i. e., the questions of discipline, the daily management, the guidance and direction of the teaching force, the arrangement of rosters, etc., the Committee wisely relegates these problems to the executive head of the school, holding him responsible for results. That the plan works well is shown in the fact that but one case of discipline has been officially brought before the Committee for the past twenty years.

SCHOOL CONDITIONS.

While the year has not been a particularly eventful one, it has had its due share of objective history, and even under our present adverse conditions I have reason to believe that it has fully held its own in maintaining and advancing the interests of an educational movement which has been so long our joint duty and pleasure to administer. The school is still maintaining its waiting attitude, with the not unreasonable expectation that in the near future we shall see the realization of our long cherished hopes—a new school. The spacious lot at Twenty-sixth and Master streets has been transferred by City Councils to the Board of Public Education as a site for the new building, and an appropriation of $400,000 asked for by the latter body, is now pending action in Councils.

The meagre appropriations for shop and laboratory supplies for the current year, and the still more meagre allowance for text-books tended further to complicate existing conditions, and make our school problem all the more difficult to wrestle with. A supplementary appropriation by Councils of one thousand dollars for material supplies enabled the school to tide over a threatened deficit, and we fortunately end the year with a clear balance sheet.

THE COURSE OF STUDY.

There has been no change in the curriculum. The course of study, which is now in successful operation, and which has stood the test of years, is probably the best that has as yet been devised for our distinctive type of school, and, under right conditions, would be an ideal arrangement. The overcrowding of the school, however, within the past few years has made it impossible to maintain the equilibrium between the manual training side of the school and the academic departments.

The basis upon which the original manual training school was established and which all the leading manual training schools in the country have adopted, viz.: two hours a day to shop work, one hour to drawing, and three hours to academic work, has been so shifted that this proportion has not been maintained. The rigidity of shop conditions—where each boy must have an individual forge, a lathe, a vise, or a bench -can only be met by parallel shops. The pressure of surplus numbers has, therefore, been exerted along the lines of least resistance, and in consequence the academic work has been enlarged at the expense of the shops. The result is that the number of hours devoted to manual training in the Freshman Class has been reduced from ten hours a week to eight; in the second year to six; and in the third year to four. While this process of "robbing Peter to pay Paul" is a gain to the academic side of the school, it is a corresponding loss to its distinctive feature,—the manual departments.

THE FACULTY.

The appointment of Dr. Henry R. Burch to the Department of History and Civics, made vacant by the death of Gerrit E. H. Weaver, and the election of Dr. Oscar Gerson to the professorship of English Literature, have fully rounded out the teaching force of the academic departments and we are now thoroughly and ably equipped on that side of the school. The selection of Henry W. Hetzel as teacher of Constructive Drawing has made possible a closer correlation of the shops and drawing department, and has greatly added to the efficiency of the manual training departments. The additions and changes in the personnel of the faculty have been a matter of most thoughtful and judicious consideration and I take much pleasure in saying that the new appointees are faithfully and efficiently fulfilling the duties of their respective positions. So far as mere room is concerned, we have now all the teaching force that can be effectively utilized under our present limitations. If, during the coming summer, we can enlarge our electrical laboratory, it will be necessary to have an additional assistant in order that the work of this important department may be put in the highest working order.

The selection of an instructor for the manual training departments is perhaps more difficult than the choice of a teacher for the academic work. The colleges and technical schools are yearly turning out hundreds of young men who are highly educated, and having special training along specific Men of approved experience in other institutions of learning are attracted by the better compensation and greater stability of public school positions. In the wealth of material which presents itself for academic positions the question resolves itself into the choice of the first best, and there is not much liability of making a mistake when a position in literature, mathematics, or science is to be filled. The shop instructor, however, is the latest product of educational evolution, and this new type of teacher is as yet a scarce article. To quote Dr. Woodward, of St. Louis, he must be much more than a mechanic; he must be a draughtsman, ready to sketch any part of a machine or exercise involving a mechanical principle; he should be something of a scientist, understanding the strength of materials and the application of the mechanical powers. In common with all teachers, he should have a level head, a clear voice, a steady hand, a confident look, and above all, enthusiasm. He should realize that tools and tool processes are the product of ages of experience, and he must know the right ways of using them. Like any other teacher, he must know just where the class stands, how much or how little it knows of the subject in hand, and lead them step by step The work of his class should be as to logical conclusions. uniform as that of a class in algebra or in physics, where the pupils are performing the same problems, or carrying out the same series of experiments. He would no more take the pupil's tools and do his work for him than would the teacher of English write out the boy's composition for him. up, his principal concern is more for the development of the boy than for a beautifully finished exercise. Such a man is rare, and-provided a teacher of approved experience is not available—the selection of such a teacher should, in my judgment, be made through the eliminative processes of a competitive examination.

Right in line with this subject, I desire to call the attention of the Committee to the somewhat undefined relation which the drawing departments bear to the rest of the school. As a matter of fact, drawing is more closely allied to the manual departments than to the academic side of the school. The salaries, however, are based upon the academic schedule, and it follows that the later "drawing" appointees, if the salary plan is carried out to its logical conclusion, will eventually receive the academic maximum salary ($2500). This I think would be unfair to the shop teacher, whose lines of work are largely identical with those of the drawing teachers. the salary of the present heads of the Drawing Department should not be disturbed as long as they remain in their present positions, I think the later appointees in drawing, who occupy subordinate positions, should eventually receive nomore than do the shop teachers ($2000).

THE BOY.

The most important factor in the school,—the element in fact for which all other conditions exist,—is the boy himself. Some three hundred or more come to us every year from half a hundred different schools, each school with its distinctive administration and local traditions. To shape these heterogenous elements into one compact student body, to inculcate a spirit of loyalty to his work, to put each student in touch with advanced educational ideas, is a task that demands the wisest handling, and under conditions which are most favorable to school life. Experience has shown that if the boy during the first year of high school life fails to catch the true spirit of the school, he is apt to be half-hearted in his loyalty and devotion to its best interests in the succeeding years.

Unfortunately our conditions are such as to seriously militate against these interests. The disadvantage of having no assembly room for the Freshman Class and the still greater discomfort and loss of time caused by the daily hurrying to and fro in all kinds of weather from the Central School to the Annex (some five squares away), tend largely to break up the sense of the solidarity of the school day, and to disintegrate that unity of school life which is so essential to the development of the school spirit. It is no wonder perhaps that that so many students, under these disturbing conditions,failing to grasp the significance of higher education,—become disgruntled with their material environment, and drop out of school during the first year. Since the opening of school in September, there have left the Freshman Class some thirty boys, as against only four members of the Senior Class who for good reasons have dropped out during the same time. Those of us who are so deeply concerned in the welfare of a school that was first in the field, and whose instant success made manual training a permanent factor in this city, may be pardoned if we enter our protest against a condition of things that has permitted this pioneer school to remain nearly twenty years in an old dilapidated building, wholly unfitted for its scheme of instruction or for the free play of its special activities.

FOURTH YEAR.

The question of an obligatory fourth year still comes to the front. With our present overcrowded school, it is simply impossible to add another year to the course. Even with a new building, fully equipped and manned, I doubt if the best interests of the manual training movement would be promoted by an additional year. Experience has shown that our present rounded three years' course not only puts its graduates in touch with the practical activities of life and enables them to gain an immediate livelihood, but it also admirably fits them to take up advanced work in the College, Technical School, or University. Moreover, if a fourth year should be added to the course, the practical work of the school in the last year would be apt to run into mere technique, which is not in accordance with the fundamental educational idea of this school in particular, or within the province of the public school system in general, A recent letter from Professor Marburg, of the University of Pennsylvania, shows that Philadelphia is gradually being supplied with a class of well-trained technical men who started in the manual training schools. There is no question to-day as to the high standing these men are taking in the community.

Outside of the regular work of the school there are two functions which have their specific educational values,—the Commencement, illustrating the academic side of the school,—and the Annual Exhibit, showing the outcome of the manual departments and the drawing rooms.

COMMENCEMENT.

The Commencement was held on the afternoon of June seventeenth, in the Garrick Theatre. The salutatory address was given by Lawrence S. Love, and the valedictory address delivered by George Rosengarten, the first honor man of his class. The speaker of the day was Dr. Frederic W. Speirs, Editor of the Book Lovers' Magazine, whose very effective address on manual training embodied his own experience and observations while a teacher in the Northeast Manual Training School. Mr. Henry R. Edmunds, President of the Board of Public Education, awarded the diplomas to the 112 graduates, the largest graduating class in the history of the school. George Rosengarten and Waldron C. Beekley were respectively awarded the Isaac A. Sheppard gold and silver medals.

In the order of their standing and merit, prize scholar-ships were awarded to George Rosengarten (the Muir scholar-ship), Waldron C. Beekley, John H. Bricker, Guy H. Haldeman, Arthur E. Geiger, Royden J. Astley, and G. Lathrop Smith. Free scholarships in the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art were granted to Caryl A. Grammar, Joseph R. Higgins, and Horace D. Welsh. In addition to these scholarships, some twenty-five other graduates of the class are in the University of Pennsylvania, principally in those courses leading up to scientific professions.

THE EXHIBIT.

The annual exhibit was held in the school June fourteenth and fifteenth and as usual was attended by large crowds of parents and others interested in the work of the school. The extent, variety, and excellence of the shop work, so arranged as to show its logical sequence from the beginning of the first year to the end of the third year, showed conclusively two results: first, under proper tuition boys can be trained to do hand and tool work that would do credit to a trained artisan; second, and the most important, that boys who do this excellent work have received a special mental training that could be received in no other way.

· Some few years ago at a special exhibit of our work in New York City, the report of the judges contained the following statement: "It may be said, without injurious comparisons, that the five manual training schools which stand in point of age and achievement, in the very front rank, are the Central Manual Training School of Philadelphia, the Chicago Manual Training School, the Cambridge (Mass.) Manual Training School, the Northeast Manual Training School of Philadelphia, and the Pratt Institute of Brooklyn." This year at the St. Louis Exposition the exhibit of the Manual Training Schools of Philadelphia—the joint product of our own and sister school—was awarded the "grand prize." I mention these incidents merely as showing, that in spite of the adverse conditions under which both schools are laboring, the manual training movement in this city is still maintaining a leading place in the new education.

The keynote of the manual training movement is so admirably struck by Prof. William James, of Harvard University, that I may be pardoned for concluding my report with the latest word on the subject. "The most colossal improvement which recent years have seen in secondary education lies in the introduction of the manual training schools, not because they will give us a people more handy and practical for domestic life and better skilled in trades, but because they will give us citizens with an entirely different intellectual Laboratory work and shop work engender a habit of observation, a knowledge of the difference between accuracy and vagueness, and an insight into nature's complexity, and into the inadequacy of all verbal accounts of real phenomena, which, once wrought into the mind, remain there as lifelong possessions. They confer precision, they give honesty, they beget a habit of self-reliance, they occupy a pupil in a way most congruous with the spontaneous interests of his age. They absorb him, and leave impressions durable and profound. Compared with the youth taught by these methods, one brought up exclusively by books carries through life a certain remoteness from reality; he stands, as it were, out of the pale and feels that he stands so, and often suffers a kind of melancholy from which he might have been rescued by a more real education."

A final word for the school. Standing as it does for the all-round development of the boy, it counts for much more than the mere name implies. Unhampered by traditions and equipped by a strong faculty it has been able to take up new ideas, "weigh them in the balance," and if found wanting cast them aside. And by "holding fast to that which is good," it has evolved a course of study and methods of government which seem fully to provide for the highest welfare of that complex product,—the modern boy. It early abolished mechanical rewards, prizes, per cents., rankings or bribes of any Its earnest endeavor has always been to create an atmosphere of self-respect, and to inspire its pupils with the high ideal of doing right for the sake of right, and not from the hope of reward or fear of punishment. The high ground thus taken would defeat itself unless it were backed by a faculty who are in entire sympathy with these ideals, and whose hands are further strengthened by a Committee ever ready to uphold and safeguard the best interests of the school.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. L. SAYRE,

Principal.

REPORT

OF THE

NORTHEAST MANUAL TRAINING SCHOOL OF PHILADELPHIA.

FOR THE YEAR 1904.

To Messrs. Thomas Shallcross, Chairman; James Hughes, William McIntyre, Matthew J. Wilson, M. D., Charles H. Vanfleet, William F. Defrates, George N. Lowery, H. A. P. Neel, M. D., and Thomas Grace, Committee on Northeast Manual Training School.

Gentlemen: — The fourteenth annual report of the Northeast Manual Training School for the calendar year is herewith presented.

ATTENDANCE.

The attendance is:-

Senior Class	168
Intermediate Class	216
Freshman Class	392

These figures, taking five year periods as a basis of comparison, show the increase in attendance for the past ten years:—

•	1894									 							323	2
	1899																35	8
	1904						٠.			 							770	6

The building at Howard street, below Girard avenue, originally furnished accommodations for the school. The building at the southeast corner of Second street and Girard avenue was rented in September, 1902. The third floor of the Dickinson building, Girard avenue and Dunton street, was occupied September, 1903. Notwithstanding these additional rooms, the office, the lunch room in the basement of the main building, and the corridor of the Dickinson Annex have been used for recitation purposes during the past year.

FACULTY.

Mr. William H. Chorlton severed his connection with the school in September. The following-named assistants were elected: Mr. John D. Mahoney and Mr. Charles S. Dickinson in the Academic Department; Mr. William Saile, Mr. Morton Garton, and Mr. George D. Gideon, Jr., in the Manual Department. All entered upon their duties in September except Mr. Saile, who began in November.

COMMENCEMENT.

The Annual Commencement was held June 16th at the Garrick Theatre. Mr. Thomas Shallcross, Chairman of the Committee, was unable to be present on account of sickness. Diplomas were presented to one hundred forty-seven graduates by Mr. James Hughes, a member of the Committee. Rev. J. F. C. Fluck offered the invocation, and Isaac Sharpless, LL. D., President of Haverford College, delivered the oration. The salutatory address was given by Warren E. McCann, and the valedictory address by F. Palin Spruance. Henry R. Edmunds, Esq., presented the Isaac A. Sheppard gold and silver medals to George P. Bradbury and Rossiter Wilbraham, respectively.

Dr. Walter S. Cornell, President of the Alumni Association, presented the Alumni gold medal to Ralph E. Greasley. Music was furnished by the School Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. A. Oswald Michener, Instructor in History.

SCHOLARSHIPS.

The Committee on Scholarships of the Board of Public Education subsequently awarded free scholarships in the University of Pennsylvania to the following in order of rank at graduation:—

Ralph E. Greasley, B. C. Truitt, Edward F. Rumig, Clifford Haldeman, F. Palin Spruance, Ernest Wm. Nowack.

Warren E. McCann who shared first honor with Ralph E. Greasley was awarded a scholarship at Lehigh University. Maurice Plough and Hyman S. Weiss received scholarships offered by the Pennsylvania Museum and School of Industrial Art, and Irving B. Horn in the Jefferson Medical College.

The incentive for higher education is shown by the fact that in addition to these members of the graduating class who received scholarships thirty-three matriculated at the University of Pennsylvania, four at Lehigh, one at Swarthmore, and one at the University of West Virginia. Two have been selected as instructors in industrial schools.

LECTURES.

In 1898, the faculty of this school initiated a departure in the educational work of this city by offering a course of free illustrated lectures to the public. The popularity of the movement made it necessary to secure a larger hall than that in the Moffett Building which had been so kindly placed at our disposal by the Directors of the Seventeenth Section. For the last four years we have accepted the hospitality of the Committee on the Girls' Normal School through its Chairman, Mr. Simon Gratz.

These lectures are given by a corps of instructors whose professional pride prompt them to make this voluntary contribution to the cause of public education. The course for this winter is:—

Friday evening, December 2, 1904: "The Wit, Wisdom and Worship of Old Ireland," by Prof. L. L. Ford.

Friday evening, January 20, 1905: "Manual Training: An Appreciation and History," under direction of Dr. Lemuel Whitaker, Department of English.

- Tuesday evening, February 21, 1905: An Evening with the Musical Clubs. The Glee Club, the Mandolin Club, and the Orchestra of the School, under direction of Prof. A. Oswald Michener.
- Friday evening, March 17, 1905: Subject to be announced. Dr. Frederic W. Speirs, Managing Editor Booklovers' Magazine; formerly of the Department of History and Economics.
- Music on each evening under the direction of Prof. A. Oswald Michener.

The first of this course was given by Professor Ford on the 2d inst., to an appreciative audience which filled the assembly hall at the Girls' Normal School.

EXHIBITIONS.

The annual exhibition of the work of the students of this school was held May 26th and 27th. The attendance on these occasions is only limited by the capacity of the building. They have proved an important factor in educating the public to a proper understanding of the character and the scope of the work of this school.

A comprehensive exhibit of the work of the students of this school, representing the academic and manual departments was installed in connection with similar work of the students of the Central Manual Training School at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis, as the work of the students of the Manual Training Schools of Philadelphia.

The interest aroused by this exhibit, the numerous inquiries and application for specimens from all parts of the country, and the recognition of its merits by the authorities of the exposition attest its excellence.

ABSENCE OF TEACHERS.

Last year this school did not present a single clean monthly pay-roll. The absence due to sickness, owing to the severity of the winter and other causes, affected thirteen different instructors. The deductions for pay amounted to one hundred and forty days. Six of these instructors have taught more than twenty years, and all except two have taught more than five years. They are capable and efficient. They spend many days of vacation periods, and many additional hours of every school day in the preparation of the work of their several departments. It seems reasonable that some consideration should be given to faithful public servants who are thus unfortunate. I trust that the presentation of this subject may meet with approval and that at least those who have given approved service for a period of ten, of fifteen, or of twenty years be hereafter relieved of loss of salary when absent from duty on account of personal illness.

APPROPRIATIONS.

In the last annual report I called attention to the fact that in ten years the total annual appropriations to this school had decreased thirty-six and nine-tenths per cent. (36.9 per cent.), while the attendance had increased one hundred and thirty-seven per cent. (137 per cent.) in the same period. The appropriation for supplies this year was four thousand dollars ($4000.00), although there was a large increase in attendance. When City Councils realized how seriously the school would be crippled, an additional thousand dollars ($1000.00) was voted in November.

The outlay for wood and iron used in the manual departments, the appliances and the necessary machinery and tools, the needs of the drawing rooms, physical apparatus and chemicals must not exceed five thousand dollars ($5000.00), or six dollars and forty-four cents ($6.44) per student. With this amount, less than one-half of what was formerly deemed necessary, satisfactory results cannot be expected. Only by rigid economy has it been possible to meet the most pressing demands during the past few years.

In making this statement it is not intended to express the slightest doubt of the intention of the Board of Public Educa-

ABSENCE OF TEACHERS.

Last year this school did not present a single clean monthly pay-roll. The absence due to sickness, owing to the severity of the winter and other causes, affected thirteen difponents to their annual football game. After the contest they saluted their victorious rivals and marched from the grounds in a body. The actions of the students of both schools on this occasion was in such marked contrast to the scenes of disorder and lawlessness so common on similar occasions among the students of the institutions of higher learning that I deem it proper to make it a matter of official record. I do so with the hope that it may help to establish a higher standard of action in athletic contests, and that it may encourage the future students of our schools to regard as the real heroes in such occasions those who act as gentlemen.

I wish to make official acknowledgment of my gratitude to you, Mr. Chairman and the members of the Committee, for the kindness shown to me during the past year and for the encouragement and support which has been so freely and so heartily given at all times.

REPORT

OF THE

JAMES FORTEN ELEMENTARY MANUAL TRAINING SCHOOL.

FOR THE YEAR 1904.

TO MESSRS. ALEXANDER P. COLESBERRY, Chairman; WILLIAM T. TILDEN, WILLIAM H. R. LUKENS, ALEXANDER J. WHITTINGHAM, WILLIAM McIntyre, Harry T. Kingston, Thomas J. Buchanan, M. D., John M. Campbell, and Charles E. Davis, Committee on the James Forten Elementary Manual Training School.

Gentlemen:—The number of pupils belonging to the James Forten Elementary Manual Training School at the end of the year is 644. The average daily attendance of pupils has been 554. The number of girls attending the cooking department from the sixth grade of neighboring schools is 308. The number of boys attending the sloyd department from neighboring schools is 98.

The third story on the front part of the building, which was in process of erection at the time of the writing of the last report, is now completed. Consequently the school has been enabled to open three more divisions. The addition to the building is by far the best lighted part of it. It has numerous and large windows, and its height raises it above the adjacent buildings that deprive the lower stories of much light. A little boy, upon his first visit to the new third story, remarked, "There's so much light up here that it makes me dizzy."

But in spite of our increased accommodations there is not nearly room enough to receive all who apply for admittance. Many little foreigners, between the ages of six and thirteen years, who sought the privilege of attendance in the first grade, have been turned away. Often their insistence was great, and they departed keenly disappointed and mystified at being refused the advantages of the far-famed American pub-When one considers how few are the years of lic schools. schooling that are apt to fall to the lot of these foreign children, it seems a pity that any of their precious time should be lost in waiting. Besides the usual lack of education they need training in English. The language ought not to be picked up hap-hazard, but should be acquired under the careful guidance of teachers, by drill in phonetics, and much practice in the proper arrangement of words in sentences. This peculiar and additional work, that must be assumed in the first grade, requires time and individual instruction. Therefore, the full number of school hours should be granted to these pupils,not half time, - and fewer children should be allotted to each teacher, rather than an excessive number. When once they have become pupils they early render assistance in the family life in unusual ways for young children. They interpret for their parents in social and business relations, they read the newspapers and library books to them, read and write letters, and write, pay and receipt bills.

The adjoining property on Addison street that has been purchased recently will afford a much needed playground. The yards now in use are quite inadequate. The boys' yard is no larger than one of our classrooms. At recess time the children are sent out in divisions, yet even with this inconvenient arrangement the limited space admits of little opportunity for games or free play.

An exhibit of drawing, sewing, and sloyd was sent to the St. Louis Fair.

In June an exhibition of the work of the sloyd department was inspected by many of the parents of the pupils and friends of the school.

In September Mr. William W. Justice presented to our kindergartens a beautiful new piano. It is used in the marches, songs and games of the four kindergartens. It seems as if no other gift could have been so appropriate and acceptable.

I wish to express to the Chairman and the other members of the Committee on the school our gratitude for their unceasing efforts to improve the school property, and to render every assistance in their power in promoting the work of the school.

Very respectfully,

HANNAH A. FOX, Principal.

Morris, Chairman of Public Industrial Art School; Henry R. Edmunds, Esq., President of the Board of Public Education, and Talcott Williams, LL. D.

Mrs. John Harrison, sister of the late Charles G. Leland, founder of the Industrial Art School, presented the certificates to the graduates.

It gives me great pleasure to state that Mrs. Harrison has presented the Art School with a free scholarship to the School of Industrial Art of the Pennsylvania Museum. This scholarship is to be called the Leland Scholarship and to be awarded every year. The scholarship is for three years' tuition, and is awarded for the first time this year.

Miss Isabelle Bradley, teacher of woodcarving in the Public Industrial Art School, and also a teacher in the School of Industrial Art of the Pennsylvania Museum, presented an Evening Scholarship to Henry Waples.

The most notable feature to mention for the year 1904 is the remarkable increase in regularity of attendance of the pupils. Even during the most severe weather and on one session day when many schools are closed in the afternoon, the Art School will be well filled. This is the result of being in our own building with more room and equipment and having smaller classes to each teacher.

In January, 1904, the Faculty of the Art School was increased by three additional teachers. Three additional rooms in the Art School building have been fitted up for drawing, modeling and carving. The school has been very much improved by this addition to its teaching force, and the classes have not been so crowded. These teachers commenced with small classes, the overflow of the regular classes, and are now well able to take additional pupils.

During the past term I endeavored, but without success, to have the quota of pupils assigned to the Art School from the various grammar schools of the city raised from two to three pupils from each grammar division to furnish additional pupils to fill the new rooms authorized by your Committee.

I call the attention of your Committee to the fact that many of the Art School pupils regularly enrolled are withdrawn from attendance during the first and second year by their grade teachers, much against the pupils' will. The parents usually acquiesce, not wishing to antagonize the teacher. I receive every month many letters to this effect from parents. I feel confident that your Committee will realize the expediency of modifying this action of the grade teachers and thus preserve the regularity in attendance and prevent the withdrawal of pupils.

I am pleased to report that the Art School Exhibit at the St. Louis World's Fair, though small, has received many favorable commendations. I am constantly in receipt of letters asking for further information as to the methods.

Appended to this report are photographs showing rooms and classes at work in the new building.

Respectfully submitted,

J. LIBERTY TADD,

Director.

REPORT

OF THE

DIRECTOR OF DRAWING.

FOR THE YEAR 1904.

Mr. Sobernheimer and Members of the Committee on Drawing:—It is gratifying to be able to report that there is a constant advancement in ideals and a steady improvement in technical execution in every phase of the work in drawing in the elementary schools. Whilst a very few schools yet lag behind, in the great majority of schools the standard of work is constantly advancing and the attitude of the teachers towards the subject is one of sympathy, if not enthusiasm. The outlook is most encouraging. Art education of the people is assured in the successful training in drawing and art principles which the pupils of our public schools are now receiving.

Early in the year a representative exhibition of drawings from the elementary grades was sent to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition at St. Louis. It consisted of eighty mounts containing about 800 drawings and eight bound volumes containing over 1300 drawings. The work received the most flattering encomiums from many sources of art authority, and shared with the other school subjects in finally securing from the exposition jury a "Grand Prize" for excellence, awarded to the Board of Education. The entire art exhibit of the Philadelphia schools was so generally admired by the Prussian Art Commissioners, who ranked it in thoroughness and excellence as the foremost exhibit of its kind at the fair, that its presentation to the Prussian government has been officially requested. As a result of the exhibition, special exhibits of drawings from the elementary grades have been requested and sent to Winnipeg, Manitoba, and to Portland, Oregon.

During the year the course of instruction in drawing for the primary grades was reprinted. Improvements in classifi— cation, program of lessons and other suggestions were intro— duced.

I wish especially to commend the enterprising spirit of our teachers in the decoration of their classrooms with appropriate pictures and statuary. It is the exception now to find bare school walls, and the selection of pictures is generally judicious and artistic; an evidence of art culture and refinement.

Altogether the advancement in art, in its appreciation and in its practice in our schools, is most gratifying, and should spur every worker in the field to increased effort.

Very respectfully,

December 31, 1904.

REPORT

OF THE

COMMITTEE ON EVENING SCHOOLS.

FOR THE YEAR 1904.

To the Board of Public Education of the First School District of Pennsylvania:—

The Committee on Evening Schools in making its report for the term of 1904 and 1905, just closed, is pleased to announce the continued increase in efficiency and attendance of this important branch of public school work.

Forty-seven schools were opened on October 17th, with an enrollment of 15,239, an increase of 773 over that of the previous year, while the total number enrolled, 27,294, was 2,814 greater than the preceding term. The average number belonging during the term, 17,089, was 1,381 in excess of last year's report, and the average attendance of 10,860 was 755 more than that of last year; the percentage of attendance, based upon the average number belonging, being the same as the preceding term,—namely, 64 per cent. The elementary schools closed on February 15th, with a term of seventeen weeks, and the high schools closed on March 8th, with a term of twenty weeks.

The reports of the various schools classifies the enrollment of pupils as follows:—

Under fifteen years of age	5,213
Between fifteen and twenty-one years	14,656
Between twenty-one and thirty years	5,427
Between thirty and forty years	1,499
Between forty and fifty years
Over fifty years	88
Number of colored pupils, included in the above statement	1,333

The average age of all pupils was nineteen years. 19,248 pupils were born in this country, an increase of 9 per cent. over last year; 8,064 were born in foreign countries, which is 14 per cent. greater than the enrollment of the same class of the preceding term.

The Committee notes the evident reluctance of experienced teachers to accept positions in the elementary schools, and by which the schools in some portions of the city were at times handicapped by the lack of a full force of competent teachers. This is partly due to the recent increase in the salaries of day school teachers with experience, and also that the present salary of $1.50 per evening is not sufficient to attract the more experienced teachers of our day schools. The present pay of the evening schools, however, is as much as the appropriation will permit.

With all the difficulties attending the conduct of the evening schools, the Committee is of the opinion that the character of the work, as well as the continued increase in attendance, warrants the fullest support from the Board in caring for the interests of those who must depend upon evening instruction to better their condition in life.

The grading of the evening elementary schools, which has always been a matter of much concern to the Committee, and one so difficult to arrange by reason of conditions both in regard to age and qualification, is working out most satisfactorily, particularly in some of the larger schools. The specimens of the work done in the schools, which in some schools are carefully saved and mounted, as shown at the closing exercises, prove conclusively that with a school sufficiently large in numbers, and by the judicious arrangement of pupils by the principal, the grading of elementary schools can be successfully provided for, though, of course, not with the same measure of success possible in the day schools.

A word of commendation should also be said for the sewing and millinery classes, which have become a popular part of evening school work. The skill displayed by the pupils in these two useful branches of instruction is at once apparent to all who may have had the privilege of viewing the exhibitions of work shown at the close of the term in many of the schools.

In this connection, it is proper to say that the Committee is highly pleased to report the results attending its exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition, by which the highest praise was given the evening school work, in awarding the Grand Prize to the exhibit of the Philadelphia schools.

The Evening High School for Men and the Evening High School for Women were most successful in the work accomplished, the former having an attendance of 1365, an increase of 441 over last year.

It was necessary for the Evening High School for Men, with its enrollment of 2,590 pupils at the beginning of the term, to find accommodations for the intermediate classes, composed of younger pupils, in one of the elementary school buildings. An annex to the school was opened in the Thaddeus Stevens School building, Seventeenth street, above Fairmount avenue, which continued until the Christmas holidays, at which time the average attendance had dropped sufficiently to permit of housing all the pupils in the High School building. The principals of both of the Evening High Schools report most gratifying results. Certificates of Merit were awarded in these schools to those pupils only who passed satisfactory examinations in the branches of studies pursued. The fact that the two Evening High Schools showed a combined average attendance of 1,770, establishes beyond question, the popularity and usefulness of these schools, and makes them an influential factor in this community. The Committee feels warranted in individualizing its report to the extent of saying that to Prof. Franklin S. Edmonds, Principal of the Evening High School for Men, and to Dr. Lucy Langdon Williams Wilson, Principal of the Evening High School for Women, is due the highest praise for the excellent records made by these two institutions, reports from whom will be made later.

The financial statement of the Committee is as follows:—
Amount available at the opening of the term in October $32,486.25
Additional appropriation by City Councils 15,000.00
Total $47,486.25
Cost of maintaining schools from October 3d, to the Christmas holidays 43,757.77
Balance carried to 1905 $3,728.48
Appropriation for 1905 55,000.00
Total amount available for the present year $58,728.48
Cost of schools from January 1st to close of term 24,830.08
Leaving a balance on hand of $33,898.40
Total amount expended for evening schools during the term of 1904 and 1905
Cost per pupil based on average number belonging 4.01
The report of the various schools in detail is herewith appended.

In conclusion, the following resolution is submitted:-

Resolved, That the Committee on Estimates be directed to insert in the Estimate of Expenses for the year 1906, the sum of $75,000 for evening schools.

Respectfully submitted,

Harry T. Kingston, Joel Cook.

REPORT

OF THE

CHIEF OF THE BUREAU OF COMPULSORY EDUCATION.

FOR THE YEAR 1904.

TO MESSRS. WM. T. TILDEN, Chairman; WM. H. R. LUKENS, THOS. E. MERCHANT, JOHN M. CAMPBELL, JOSEPH W. CATHARINE, WILLIAM H. SHOEMAKER, ROBERT H. NONES, Members of the Committee on Compulsory Education.

GENTLEMEN:—The report of the Bureau of Compulsory Education for the past two years is herewith submitted.

To intelligibly set forth that which has been accomplished during this period, it is necessary to take a retrospective view of the work done, and the methods pursued in previous years.

The year 1903 closed with twenty-eight attendance officers, and during the past year twelve more were appointed, making the present force consist of forty officers. Since this increase in the number has been made, the principals of the elementary schools have reported that the attendance at their schools has greatly increased.

It had been the custom, for several years, for the principals to report directly to the office, such cases as needed attention, but with the increased number of attendance officers, affording more frequent visits to the schools, the work of collecting the names of pupils and of investigating the cases, has been much simplified and improved. At least two, and in some districts three visits a week to each school are now possible. There has been less trouble during the past year in obtaining from parents the correct ages of their children. Frequent cases of deception, on the part of some parents, had been practiced, in stating the ages of their children, and it became necessary to find some way of overcoming the difficulties thus encountered in the proper enforcement of the Compulsory Education Law.

The census records, as well as the records of the Board of Health, are now consulted in regard to all doubtful statements, with much more satisfactory results. To avoid the many discrepancies between the ages of children as given at school and those furnished the attendance officers, it might be well, if it could be arranged, to require parents or guardians to certify to the exact date and place of birth of their children; such certificate to be kept in the Department of Superintendence, properly indexed for future reference.

SPECIAL SCHOOLS.

Special Schools were organized to meet the needs of children who, for various reasons, could not get along in the regular or elementary schools. With the many foreign children that are constantly coming into this city, and the many indifferent parents of children moving from sections of the country where there is either no such law or the law is unenforced, it is necessary to have the aid of special schools.

Special School No. 1 was established September, 1898; Special School No. 2, February, 1899; Special School No. 3, May, 1902; Special School No. 4, June, 1902; Special School No. 5, November, 1902; Special School No. 6, November, 1903; Special School No. 7, December, 1903; Special School No. 8, June, 1904; Special Schools No. 9 and No. 10, December, 1904. Thus it is shown that for over three years there were only two Special Schools and in last three years eight additional schools have been established, making in all ten schools; and there is still a need for more before sufficient accommodations are afforded for the boys that require the discipline and instruction given in these schools, and to bring a special school within the legal distance of each pupil.

The special schools have an excellent effect upon the general discipline of the regular schools in the neighborhood in which they are established.

It is no unusual thing for parents to send letters of appreciation for what has been done for their children in these schools.

The curriculum prepared for the elementary schools is followed as far as possible, and in addition there is added sloyd and other hand work. This is not only a relief to both body and mind, but is also a great inducement toward the more regular attendance of many boys. It teaches them accuracy of mind and eye, cleanliness and industry. To be deprived of going to the work-shop is one of the greatest punishments that can be inflicted.

Sloyd or woodwork is taught by a special teacher, but raffia and reed work is taught in the class-rooms by the regular teachers.

A certain period is allowed each day for handwork and while a portion of the class is being instructed in sloyd the remainder will be at work on raffia and reed, or perhaps weaving or hammock making.

To some boys the raffia and reedwork appeals more strongly than the woodwork and they become quite apt at basket making.

Boys attending the special schools a short time show a remarkable improvement in both lessons and conduct. The shortest time a boy is allowed in a special school is thirty days. Each day they are given a card called Attendance and Conduct card. They are of two colors, blue and yellow. The former denotes early, and good conduct, the latter lateness and unsatisfactory conduct. In order to be transferred to a regular school a boy must have thirty blue cards for thirty consecutive days.

A place was allowed at the St. Louis Exposition to exhibit the work of the Special Schools. Considering the short time many pupils are in these schools, the work exhibited, more than surpassed our expectations.

BACKWARD CLASSES.

There are many children in the regular schools with some physical or mental defect that retards their progress, but as soon as the defect is located and the child placed under proper training he or she shows development.

Such children should not be allowed to remain in the classes of the regular schools. They are a hindrance to both teacher and scholar, and a discouragement to themselves. If allowed to remain they are apt sooner or later to become incorrigible. Classified and under proper training they will progress as rapidly as their individual case will permit.

We were compelled last year to establish three additional classes to meet these demands.

There are at present nine backward classes, eight for boys and one for girls.

Even this number is insufficient to meet the present requirements, but the appropriation for 1905 will not permit the establishing of any more—in fact, it is inadequate to maintain the present number. However, it is believed that Councils will in good time relieve our present embarrassment.

PARENTAL SCHOOL.

Another year has closed and no provision has yet been made for the establishment of a parental school. Philadelphia is not alone in this respect. Other cities in the State are laboring under the same conditions. The necessity for such a school is greatly recognized by all connected with the work. It would seem as if there remains but one thing to be done, namely the adoption of a State law making it mandatory that parental schools be established for the use of certain school districts, or one large school for the entire State. Perhaps the latter plan would be best as the expense could then be reduced to a minimum.

The law which makes such a school necessary is a State law, and the parental school should be a State institution supported wholly or in part by the State.

If this meets with approval I would suggest that the Committee, together with the Committee on Legislation, take such steps as may be necessary to frame a proper bill for the establishment of a parental school for presentation to the Legislature now in session.

APPROPRIATION.

The appropriations made for 1904 for the enforcement of the Compulsory Attendance Law were $50,000 and $3,000 additional for Schools for Backward Children, making a total appropriation of $53,000.

At the end of the year we had an unexpended balance of $971.44. This may be accounted for owing to the fact that it was not a sufficient amount to establish an additional special school.

The same appropriation has been made for 1905. But there is a total deficit of $11,360; $8,750 for the enforcement of the Compulsory Attendance Law, and $2,610 for the School for Backward Children.

The following statement will show the deficit for each item:—

Salary of 40 attendance officers at $75 a month for 10 months ......$30,000

Total amount needed for the enforcement of law.....$58,750 Amount appropriated for the enforcement of law..... 50,000

Total amount needed for Backward Classes... $5,610 Amount appropriated for Backward Classes... 3,000

An appropriation of $5,000 has been made to take the census and it will take $6,500 to complete the work. For several years this additional amount of $1,500 has been paid out of the amount appropriated for the enforcement of the Compulsory Attendance Law, but as there has not been a sufficient amount appropriated to maintain the special schools now established, it will be necessary to have an additional appropriation to complete the work as required by law.

We will require 200 desks for the present schools to take the place of old ones that are worn out and not fit for use which will cost $759.60.

If Councils will appropriate $17,000, making the total amount asked for $70,000, it will enable us to maintain the ten special schools now established, purchase the 200 desks, and establish two additional schools that are absolutely needed to meet the demands.

The statistics appended hereto may be of interest as well as a report from the Superintendent of Schools.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. THORNTON,

Chief of Bureau.

January 12, 1905.

DR. EDWARD BROOKS, Superintendent of Public Schools.

DEAR SIR:—At intervals of two weeks from the middle of March, 1904, until the first of June, I called meetings of the special school teachers in each of the several buildings consecutively that the teachers in each might have the opportunity to see the building, the furniture, and the environment of every other school.

At these meetings the following subjects were considered:

The general purpose of the special school; the courses of study in these schools; the relation between special and regular schools; how to articulate the studies of the special schools with those of the regular schools; methods of teaching and of disciplining; the character of handwork to be done; how to develop the best in the nature of every pupil in these schools.

Since the beginning of the current school term, I have visited every room of every special school, and have heard or have conducted recitations or exercises in every one. At the close of the session, I have had in each school a meeting of the teachers of that school for the purpose of conferring with them respecting the character of the work done, or the nature of the results obtained as made evident by inspection or examination of the several classes.

At the meeting held April 20, Mr. Mason spoke to the teachers about the character and the range of instruction in drawing adopted to the work of the special schools; and at the meeting held May 4th, Mr. Pearson spoke about the value of music in any course of study and illustrated methods by which the subject could be successfully and profitably taught in schools of this character.

As a result of these visits, conferences and meetings I have reached the following conclusions:—

1. A parental school is a necessity in the system of special schools as they are now organized, and it is a necessity now.

There are cases of insubordination which cannot now be dealt with in any other way than by the infliction of corporal punishment. While this means of discipline may be better than the expulsion of the boy from school, thus again throwing him under influences from which the special school is intended to rescue him, it is not the best means of stimulating his better nature, as would be the case if his self-respect and his respect for authority in a school symbolizing both home and parents were appealed to.

2. The interests of the special school are best subserved when the management of the school is in the hands of a principal who is not also a teacher in the sloyd department.

The character of work to be done in the sloyd department demands the teacher's closest attention. The boy is in constant need of instruction and training. He needs guidance and encouragement; he needs a high standard constantly before him and stimulation to reach the best results of which he is capable.

These conditions cannot exist if the teacher is responsible for the general management of the school, and is also subject to frequent interruptions by visitors, parents, officers, teachers, and pupils from other classes.

3. Conditions and qualifications being equal, the teacher of sloyd should be a man.

The character of the boys under instruction, the nature of the work to be done, the training of mind and muscle in the workroom, the preparation of the majority of the boys for business employments to be pursued in a business-like manner to produce workmanlike results, all need the mechanical turn of the man's mind, his training in mechanical pursuits, his general knowledge of business affairs, in order to insure the highest efficiency under the conditions existing in these schools.

4. There should be a more nearly uniform and unified system of exercises in sloyd work for the several schools.

This system should be carefully graded through a series of exercises adapted to the several classes of pupils from the beginners to those who become most expert in the use of tools and in the character of work done.

From this harmonious and unified system or series there

DR. EDWARD BROOKS, Superintendent of Public Schools.

DEAR SIR:—At intervals of two weeks from the middle of March, 1904, until the first of June, I called meetings of the special school teachers in each of the several buildings consecutively that the teachers in each might have the opportunity to see the building, the furniture, and the environment of every other school.

At these meetings the following subjects were considered:

The general purpose of the special school; the courses of study in these schools; the relation between special and regular schools; how to articulate the studies of the special schools with those of the regular schools; methods of teaching and of disciplining; the character of handwork to be done; how to develop the best in the nature of every pupil in these schools.

Since the beginning of the current school term, I have visited every room of every special school, and have heard or have conducted recitations or exercises in every one. At the close of the session, I have had in each school a meeting of the teachers of that school for the purpose of conferring with them respecting the character of the work done, or the nature of the results obtained as made evident by inspection or examination of the several classes.

At the meeting held April 20, Mr. Mason spoke to the teachers about the character and the range of instruction in drawing adopted to the work of the special schools; and at the meeting held May 4th, Mr. Pearson spoke about the value of music in any course of study and illustrated methods by which the subject could be successfully and profitably taught in schools of this character.

As a result of these visits, conferences and meetings I have reached the following conclusions:—

1. A parental school is a necessity in the system of special schools as they are now organized, and it is a necessity now.

There are cases of insubordination which cannot now be dealt with in any other way than by the infliction of corporal punishment. While this means of discipline may be better than the expulsion of the boy from school, thus again throwing him under influences from which the special school is intended to rescue him, it is not the best means of stimulating his better nature, as would be the case if his self-respect and his respect for authority in a school symbolizing both home and parents were appealed to.

2. The interests of the special school are best subserved when the management of the school is in the hands of a principal who is not also a teacher in the sloyd department.

The character of work to be done in the sloyd department demands the teacher's closest attention. The boy is in constant need of instruction and training. He needs guidance and encouragement; he needs a high standard constantly before him and stimulation to reach the best results of which he is capable.

These conditions cannot exist if the teacher is responsible for the general management of the school, and is also subject to frequent interruptions by visitors, parents, officers, teachers, and pupils from other classes.

3. Conditions and qualifications being equal, the teacher of sloyd should be a man.

The character of the boys under instruction, the nature of the work to be done, the training of mind and muscle in the workroom, the preparation of the majority of the boys for business employments to be pursued in a business-like manner to produce workmanlike results, all need the mechanical turn of the man's mind, his training in mechanical pursuits, his general knowledge of business affairs, in order to insure the highest efficiency under the conditions existing in these schools.

4. There should be a more nearly uniform and unified system of exercises in sloyd work for the several schools.

This system should be carefully graded through a series of exercises adapted to the several classes of pupils from the beginners to those who become most expert in the use of tools and in the character of work done.

From this harmonious and unified system or series there should be selected suitable exercises to constitute the minimum requirements in extent and character for the individual schools as determined by conditions. The remaining exercises of the series may be taken or added by any school or class as it may develop ability and skill warranting an increase or extension of requirements.

Very respectfully,

EDGAR A. SINGER.

January 12, 1905.
